

The IPV Prevention Council

- History: Formed in 2011 as a voluntary association of domestic violence coalitions
- Vision: A future in which a wide network of collaborative and sustained primary prevention efforts lead to the social change necessary to end IPV

The IPV Prevention Council

- Goal: A unified national voice for prevention
- Purpose:
- 1. Promote prevention as a sustainable priority for coalitions and local domestic violence programs
- 2. Proactively engage federal partners, funders, and allied organizations to promote IPV prevention as a critical component of ending domestic and sexual violence

The IPV Prevention Council

- Steering Committee Leadership:
 - Kristi VanAudenhove, Virginia Sexual & Domestic Violence Action Alliance
 - Deborah DeBare, Rhode Island Coalition Against Domestic Violence
 - Janelle Moos, North Dakota Council on Abused Women's Services
 - Gloria Aguilera Terry, Texas Council on Family Violence

DV victims in Alameda County are 4x more likely to be African American.

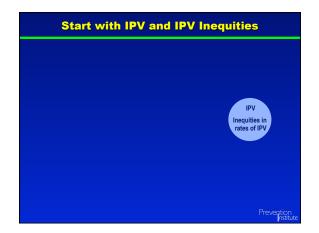

Health inequity is related both to a legacy of overt discriminatory actions on the part of government and the larger society, as well as to present day practices and policies of public and private institutions that continue to perpetuate a system of diminished opportunity for certain populations.

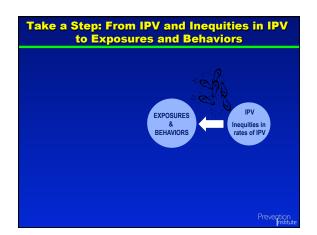

Health Equity

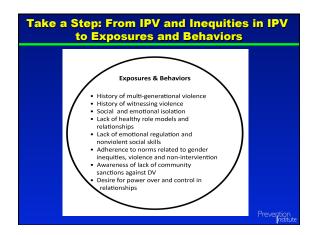

"Health equity means that every person, regardless of who they are - the color of their skin, their level of education, their gender or sexual identity, whether or not they have a disability, the job that they have, or the neighborhood that they live in - has an equal opportunity to achieve optimal health."

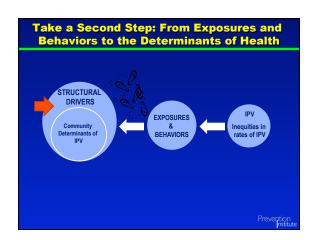

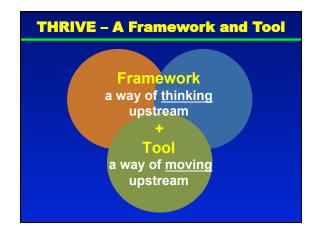

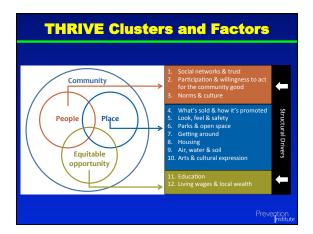

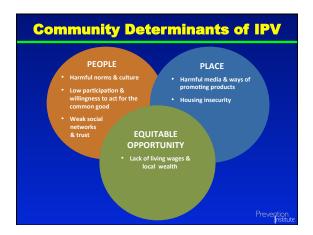

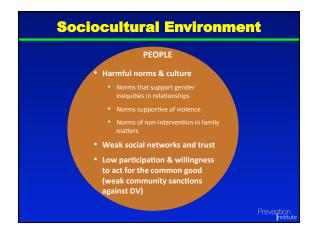

What is the THRIVE framework?

A framework for understanding how structural drivers play out at the community level to impact community determinants, and consequently, health and safety outcomes, and inequities in outcomes

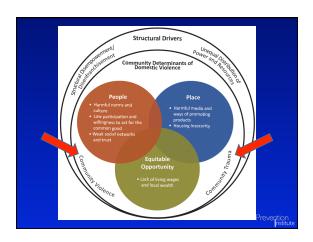

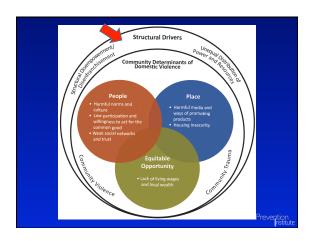

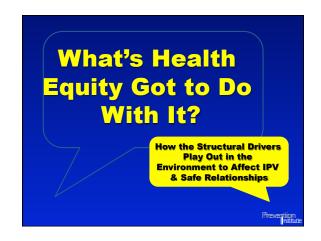

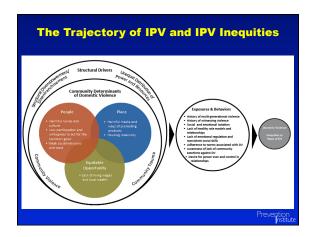

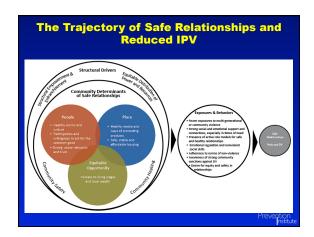

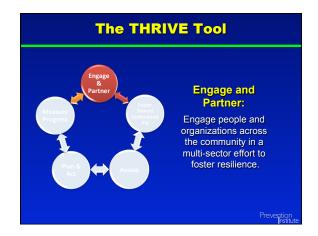

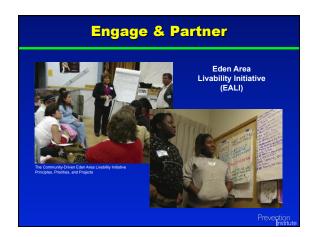

What is the THRIVE tool?

A tool for engaging community members and practitioners in assessing the status of community determinants, prioritizing them, and taking action to change them to improve health, safety, and health equity
