Olivia Duffy: We are having a Community Resource Fair... it is so complicated for Military families to get outside services. Community services think that the military does everything when we have so many budget cuts to run our programs.

Olivia Duffy: We do not do in home services when DV has happened.

Breckan: Thanks for sharing, Olivia! It is awesome that you are having a resource fair to raise awareness for military families about the resources in your community!

Breckan: Be sure to add any questions you have for the presenters here in the public chat!

Briana Neben: This is great, looking forward to implementing this!

Breckan: Awesome!! Has anyone thought of any ways you might be able to implement the #1Thing campaign into your DVAM 2018 efforts?

Olivia Duffy: Present this message to commands on Naval Station as a challenge

Amy Pohl: Thank you, presenters, and for these great resources!

Breckan: Great idea, Olivia!

Breckan: Anyone have any tips or strategies?

Linda Shackelford: Thanks so much for this presentation! Can't wait to share with the Women's Center in Danbury,CT

Briana Neben: I love how this idea smarts small. I work in a very rural community, and I think this will help them feel like they can make a difference, even in the small community.

Gabrielle Lanzetta: Do you suggest posting every day for DVAM on social media?

Breckan: Brianna- agreed! We love the idea that all of our collective "one things" are what can create social change!

Gabrielle Lanzetta: great thank you!
