• #1Thing I will do to address #DV is to speak out when I see microaggressions.

• Do #1Thing to make a difference to a survivor of #DV. Learn more.

• What is your #1Thing?

• I will write a Letter to the Editor about the need to support #DV services in my community. That’s my #1Thing. What’s yours?

• A simple act can change a feeling, someone’s day, someone’s life. What #1Thing will you do to make a difference?

• There is value and power in your #1Thing. Speak it loud & proud.

• #1Thing I want to share about my story....

• #1Thing that has inspired me to work to end domestic-violence...

• #1Thing my family could do to support my healing...

• This #DVAM2018, do #1Thing to show that violence & abuse have no place in your world.

• #1Thing I want my children to know about [love, race, justice, safety, privilege, equity].

• Social Change starts with #1Thing

• My #1Thing intersects with your #1Thing. Change happens. That’s cool.

• What’s the #1Thing you want policymakers to know about domestic violence and the needs of survivors? Share it with us!

• How are you getting engaged in your community to improve policy and system level responses to #DV? #1Thing can make a difference!
• #1Thing you can do this #DVAM is talk to policymakers about the importance of funding for programs that provide services to domestic violence survivors.

• One of the most important things we can do to help advance policies that benefit survivors is to VOTE in federal, state, and local elections. #1Thing you can do now is make sure you’re registered and commit to voting in November!

• #1Thing to remember this #DVAM is that #safehousing is consistently rated as survivors’ most urgent need. As DV advocates, advocacy for safe, affordable housing is our work too!

• Believing victims of domestic violence is #1Thing you can do to be a catalyst for change on both an individual and societal level.

• Survivors can often name #1Thing that opened the door to their healing and resilience. How can you help open that door?

• You can be the #1Thing that makes a difference in the life of a child experiencing domestic violence by offering support, encouragement, stability, and love. Simply being there can be enough.

• Meaningful collaboration is #1Thing that advances our shared vision of social justice. Who can you reach out to today?

• Modeling respect, equality, and peace in your relationships is #1Thing you can do to help end domestic violence.

• Exploring the impact of institutional racism and white supremacy culture at your organization is #1Thing you can do to dismantle the oppressive systems that perpetuate domestic violence and other injustices.

• Community connectedness is #1Thing that promotes the prevention of multiple forms of violence, including child maltreatment, domestic violence, sexual violence, youth violence, and suicide. What’s #1Thing you can do to help foster connectedness in your community?

• Working together to rebuild our neighborhoods with greener, cleaner spaces is #1Thing we can do to create protective environments that foster safety and well-being.
• Investing in trauma-informed social-emotional learning programs for young people is #1Thing we can do to foster healthy growth and resilience in our communities.

• Your story can be the #1Thing that is a catalyst to help, inspire, or motivate others to help end domestic violence.

• What is #1Thing you can do today to share your power or leverage your privilege in order to center the voices and experiences of those who are marginalized and oppressed?

• What’s the #1Thing you want policymakers to know about domestic violence and the needs of survivors? Share it with us!

• How are you getting engaged in your community to improve policy and system level responses to #DV? #1Thing can make a difference!

• #1Thing you can do this #DVAM is talk to policymakers about the importance of funding for programs that provide services to domestic violence survivors.

• One of the most important things we can do to help advance policies that benefit survivors is to VOTE in federal, state, and local elections. #1Thing you can do now is make sure you’re registered and commit to voting in November!

• #1Thing to remember this #DVAM is that #safehousing is consistently rated as survivors’ most urgent need. As DV advocates, advocacy for safe, affordable housing is our work too!